First Christmas Trees Arrive Here; Prices to Range from 75 Cents to $10

ALTHOUGH no Marion wholesalers have received shipments of Christmas trees, pines and spruces are already being offered for sale in some of the city's retail stores that obtain their stocks directly from Columbus. Two carloads of trees were in that city today

Prices on Christmas trees here will be approximately the same as last year wholesalers stated today This means that quotations on the Yuletide fixture will vary from 75 cents to $2 on the ordinary size tree It will be possible to obtain trees here up to the $10 sizes, however

Trees will be plentiful this year according to advance information received here by wholesalers They are also expected to be of very good quality, jobbers state

Both the pine and spruce will be plentiful here and prices on the two varieties will be approximately the same

Although people usually have a preference for one of the two varieties over the other as a result of the idea that one kind lasts longer than the other, there is usually little to choose between them wholesalers say Pines and spruces last approximately the same length of time they are

FLAMES RAZE LIMA BUILDING

$750,000 Loss Estimated When Fire Guts Five-Story Block

Lima Dec 4—Fire which destroyed the Holland block a five story office building at a downtown intersection here was brought under control at 7 o'clock this morning after firemen had battled the flames for 12 hours The loss is estimated at $750 000 It is the worst fire in the history of the city

Two firemen were injured Bert Smith suffered a badly lacerated leg when he broke in a store window Paul Fitzgerald was painfully cut and bruised when he slipped from a ladder

The blaze is believed to have started in the basement of the building many hours before it was discovered as practically every floor was aflame in the shafts before it was seen The entire structure was gutted

Six fire companies the complete personnel of the Lima department and the Wapakoneta department battled the blaze Four Boy Scout troops assisted police in arresting traffic and keeping crowds back

Business establishments on the ground floor were the heaviest sufferers Police scooped up jewelry valued at $7 000 from the Windsor jewelry store Postal Telegraph employes succeeded in saving valuable machinery from the office The building was erected in 1893

COOPER'S PLANS FOR INAUGURAL UP TODAY

Governor-Elect and Silver Due in Columbus, Tentative Program Outlined

Columbus Dec 4—Inaugural plans legislative policies and contemplated appointment of additional members of Governor-elect Myers Y Cooper's cabinet are scheduled to be discussed at a conference here this today between Cooper and Henry D Silver Lisbon who managed the recent Republican state campaign

Cooper and Silver returned to Ohio this week from a brief vacation at Asheville N C, Silver returned to G O P state headquarters in the Neil house this morning Cooper it was stated will arrive here this afternoon from his Cincinnati home

A tentative program for the inauguration of Cooper here on Monday Jan 14 next subject to Cooper's approval includes a parade in the forenoon in which high school bands Ohio national guardsmen and delegations from various parts of Ohio will participate the inaugural ceremony involving the administration of the oath of office followed by Cooper's inaugural address and then a public reception in the statehouse rotunda for the new governor and other recently elected state officials a banquet at night accompanied by another reception for the new state officials

It was authoritatively indicated today that Cooper and his intimate associates will take no hand in the various contests now on for house speaker senate and house floor leaders and other positions to be filled at the forthcoming legislative caucuses other than to exert all possible influence to see that the persons selected are in sympathy with such legislative policies that Cooper may have

So far as the personnel of the various legislative candidates is concerned Cooper and his advisers are maintaining a "hands off" attitude, it was stated

FIVE MURDERS ARE CONFESSED

Young Northcott's Admission Reveals Him as Astounding Criminal

—Riverside Cal Dec 4—Following a dramatic recital of brutality that rivals anything in fiction Gordon Stewart Northcott today stood out as the most astounding criminal in the history of southern California

In a voice deadly calm the young rancher who is only 21 years old today had confessed to others that nine youths were slain at his Wineville chicken ranch and that he himself had killed five of them

Sanford Clark his 15 year old nephew whose weird story of mistreatment and murder of boys brought about Northcott's arrest in Canada and extradition to California killed a sixth boy according to Northcott He refused to say who killed the other three

Plans for Northcott's preliminary arraignment in court today may not be changed to allow the young slayer to lead officers to the graves of his victims

Lets hurry and find the bodies said Northcott at one stage in his gruesome confession I don't want you fellows to think I'm a prevaricator

Northcott's breaking was gradual Earlier in the evening he confessed the murder of one boy named Alvin Gothen a Mexican But that was all he said He admitted that much on a promise that he would be allowed to enter court today and plead guilty to that one slaying

Northcott blamed his father for his degeneracy The senior Northcott is being held as a material witness but so far he has admitted nothing in connection with the crimes Northcott's mother in a letter by some of the coroner's jury evidence is in a Vancouver jail fighting extradition to California

CITY ENROLLS TOTAL OF 717 IN RED CROSS

Makes Poor Showing In Comparison with Villages of County

PROSPECT REPORTS 115

Chapters To Continue Even Though Roll Call Fails, Chairman Says

Exactly 717 memberships have been obtained in the city of Marion by the Marion County Red Cross chapter in its annual roll call Miss Margaret I Dowd secretary of the local chapter announced today

This total is extremely low when compared to the 117 members obtained in Prospect 37 in LaRue and 90 in Waldo The poor showing results from inability of the Red Cross to obtain workers to canvass the city from house-to-house entirely Miss Dowd stated

Less Than Half of Quota

At the present time with eight units located in other towns in the county still to make their reports the grand total for Marion county is 1 019 which is less than half the quota of 2 500 members set for the local chapter by the national executive committee of the American Red Cross

No possibility that the failure of the local chapter to fill its quota would effect the Red Cross work here was seen today as Local Red Cross officials stated positively that the work of the Red Cross chapter will be carried on as it has been in the past with no curtailment of its activity

AVERAGE WAGE HERE IS PLACED AT $1,423

Federal Report Issued on Marion Statistics; 70 Industries Listed

Marion wage earners earned an average of $1,4230 in 1927 according to an estimate made by the bureau of census of the United States department of commerce A report covering the estimated number of wage earners the total wages number of industries amount of material used and the value of the product has been received by the Marion Chamber of Commerce from the census bureau

The bureau estimates that there were 4 000 wage earners in the city last year They earned $5 691 781 if the estimate is correct

The report credits the city with having 70 industries including printing and publishing Materials used at $11 110 175 were used in those industries in 1927 the report estimates The finished product turned out from the 70 plants was valued at $2 $190 1

The Chamber of Commerce according to Miss Mary Kelly, secretary has no means of checking the accuracy of the bureau's estimates

COUNCIL WILL HANDLE WORK

King's Temperature Shows Higher Range, Heart Weak

By International News Service

The rarely used council of state including Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales the British premier and three other members was appointed today to take over the duties of King George because of his illness and the possibility that his incapacity will be prolonged

Two doctors were in attendance upon the king at Buckingham palace in London today The afternoon bulletin said that there was slight improvement in his general condition although it was noted his temperature at 100.2 which was higher than that of yesterday

The privy council which appointed the state councillors, was held in the sick room and the king signed the order in council for the creation of the commission which will now exercise many of the royal prerogatives

There is still keen anxiety over the condition of the king's heart, which suffered weakness from the attack of his lung illness This anxiety was not lessened any by the bulletins today

The fire had gained considerable headway before the Galion fire department reached the scene in response to a call shortly after 1 o'clock this morning as the result of a breakdown of the pumping truck After believing the blaze to be extinguished the firemen returned to their quarters but were called again shortly before 6 o'clock when a second fire was discovered The building and contents were completely destroyed in the second blaze

The garage was owned and managed by Edward Hoffman and William Matthias

ROTHSTEIN WINNER OF ELECTION BETS

Cleared Million on Hoover: Money Never Has Been Collected

New York Dec 4—When Arnold Rothstein murdered gambling magnate, died on election day, he had won $1 000 000 in bets on the election of Herbert Hoover for president—enough of a haul to pay the $4 000 000 I O U for which he was slain and a series of gambling debts contracted over a two year period of "bad business."

This was learned today by authorities as the grand jury concluding its investigation into the Rothstein assassination prepared to find three indictments

Following the cue of their leader, members of the Rothstein gambling clique also heavily backed Hoover as the winner Some of the Rothstein mob even visited national Democratic headquarters on the night of the election and placed Hoover bets over the telephone, International News Service learned today.

MESSAGE TO CONGRESS IS OPTIMISTIC

President Renders Account of His Stewardship in White House

"TIMES NEVER SO GOOD"

Executive Leaves One Solemn Warning to Legislature, "Watch Your Spending"

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

Washington, Dec 4—No congress ever assembled has met with a more pleasing prospect than that which appears at the present time The country can regard the present with satisfaction and anticipate the future with optimism

Thus plain and simply, without any flourishes, did Calvin Coolidge sum up the state of the Union today in his valedictory report to the congress that goes out of office with nine months hence

He was rendering an account of his five and one half years stewardship as well as looking into the future and he found both views eminently satisfactory

Times Never So Good

Never, he said have the times been better—the country in prosperous to a degree unrivalled in history; wages are higher business is good, taxes have been cut four times; reduced; the national debt is in chief paid off; America is at peace with the world; notable steps have been taken to outlaw war, and nations are struggling nations have been helped along the road to prosperity and stability—and nowhere on the horizon of American affairs is there discernible a single dark cloud

But all this be warned can be maintained only by adhering to those principles already marked out—strict governmental economy; no excursions up strange legislative roadways, and 'committing toil' to preserve prosperity at home and tranquility abroad

The president left one solemn warning with congress and the country It was that "Watch your spending" time and again he returned to his favorite theme of economy He admonished congress against going on any appropriation spree and said if it did it meant a deficit and an unbalanced budget

Will Apply Brakes

"I am certain," he said, "that the congress would not pass and I should not feel warranted in approving legislation which would involve us in that financial disgrace"

That was tantamount to saying that even if congress does exceed the speed limit on spending at this long dusk session, he will apply the brakes with veto

Nowhere in the nearly 10 000 words that comprised this last annual message from Calvin Coolidge did he mention his own impending retirement, nor the administration that will succ

THREE BURNED

Waitress, Her Fiance and Girl Lose Lives in Fire

New York, Dec 4—A young waitress, her fiance, whom she was to marry this week and another girl were burned to death today when fire ravaged a five story Fourteenth street tenement building The victims are Betty Colinven, 21, William Andry, 30, a salesman, her husband-to-be, and Mary Benedi, 21.

The three were trapped in a fifth floor room occupied by the two girls. The man's body was found in a chair and those of the girls in a bed Their escape had been cut off apparently by a dresser, which had been purposely placed in front of the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Emile Hubert, the owners of the building, and their two-year-old child, were slightly burned in making their escape Several other occupants of the building made their escape unhurt

MESSAGE IS HIT BY FARM LEADERS

Washington Dec 4—Unfavorable from the farm bloc, the final message of President Coolidge today was received with mixed emotions in congressional circles

The midwest Republican leaders as usual, voiced approval; the Democrats assailed it as weak The farm bloc leaders expressed open disappointment with the president's attitude toward the agricultural problem

President Renders Account of His Stewardship in White House

cel him after March 4 There was not even a hint, nor an indirect reference to the campaign and its momentous results. Mr Coolidge merely rendered an account of his own stewardship and accompanied it with some general observations about the future conduct of the business much as a chairman of a board of directors might do at any annual meeting.

Proposes No Legislation

On his own account Mr Coolidge proposed no new legislation For the most part he travelled over the same subjects and made the same recommendations in this his final message as he did in his previous messages on the opening of congress

He reported that the Pan American conference at Havana last winter was successful he told about sending the marines to Nicaragua and how they established order and procured a fair preferential election he said Chile and Peru were patching up their differences over Tacna Arica he declared with obvious satisfaction that relations with Mexico are better than they have been since the Madero revolution he said recognition had been extended to the National program in China and that things were on the up there he suggested that congress be generous in dealing with the Austrian and Greek debts and finally he recommended the prompt ratification of the Kellogg anti war treaty

"The observance of this covenant so simple and straightforward he said of the Kellogg treaty promises more for the peace of the world than any other agreement ever negotiated among the nations"

Then, turning to domestic affairs he urged congress to pass the new cruiser bill designed to overcome the navy's lack of first modern cruisers said the World war veterans were doing well cared for and warned against any much greater outlay of money on this score said agriculture was getting better and that the government should continue to aid in such ways as it could without going into business reported fine progress in the development of commercial aviation proposed for the fifth straight year that congress do something about facilitating railroad consolidation, urged again that the government encourage highway development into the Central American republics on the south endorsed extension of the air mail service to that region, too declared the heavy expenditure entailed in the Mississippi flood control precluded any large appropriations for rivers and harbors work and after indorsing the Boulder dam evelopment in general terms left it to congress

Going on he said congress should do something about Muscle Shoals but reiterated his opposition to the government trying to operate the plant proposed some slight modification of the immigration laws, reported that wages for labor were not quite higher reported on the status of the federal building program throughout the country, dealt with a variety of smaller problems and on prohibition had this to say

Binding on All

"The country has duly adopted the Eighteenth amendment Those who object to it have the right to advocate its modification or repeal Meanwhile it is binding upon the national and state governments and all our inhabitants The federal enforcement bureau is making every effort to prevent violations under the terms of the Constitution however the obligation is equally on the state to exercise the power which they have through the executive, legislative judicial and police branches of their governments in behalf of enforcement The federal government is doing and will continue to do all it can in this direction and is entitled to the active cooperation of the states

He concluded with a warning to the country not to be one slothful and selfish in the midst of an era of prosperity more extensive and of peace more permanent than it has ever before experienced

Position Easy To Lose

Having reached this position he said "we should not fail to comprehend that it can easily be lost We will not be permitted to take our ease but shall continue to be required to spend our days in unremitting toil. The actions of the government must command the confidence of the country Without this our prosperity will be lost. We must extend to other countries the largest measure of generosity, moderation and patience In addition to dealing justly, we can well afford to walk humbly

"The end of government is to keep open the opportunity for a more abundant life Peace and prosperity are not finalities they are only methods It is too easy under their influence for a nation to become selfish and degenerate This test has come to the United States Our country has been provided with the resources with which to enlarge its intellectual moral and spiritual life The issue is in the hands of the people Our faith in man and God is the justification for the belief in our continuing success.

up to $225 000 000 to these stabilization corporations for the purpose of buying and storing the surplus of the commodity and meeting operating expenses in connection therewith

Losses Borne by U S

The bill carried no specific provision for payment of the losses certain to be incurred by purchase of surplus crops The losses apparently would be borne by the government In the former measure the losses were to have been paid by the farmers themselves through the equalization fee

Another $21 000 000 would be set aside for loans to either stabilization corporations or cooperative associations for their purchase or construction of warehouses and marketing facilities A second $25 000 000 fund would be authorized for loans to associations for use in advancing part payment on crops stored for future disposition A $21 000 000 fund would be created to pay the cost of insurance by cooperatives against price declines A $2 000 000 fund would be set aside for loans to cooperatives to be used in consolidating or merging various associations in any one crop

McNary declared his new bill was designed to handle surplus farm products and to promote orderly and efficient marketing

Encourages Cooperative Marketing

It is also designed to encourage cooperative marketing and to enable the producers to get greater control over the marketing of their products thereby affording farmers a much needed bargaining power just as units of action through organization has given bargaining power to industry and labor, said McNary

The bill provides a revolving fund of $500 000 000 for the necessary financing that is—for loans to stabilization corporations for handling the surplus Loans for certain other purposes would also be made to cooperative marketing associations It is not proposed to dispose of crop surpluses at a loss to be paid out of the united States treasury

McNary said his plan went beyond the old idea of merely loaning money to cooperatives

Safeguards Written In

Several safeguards were written into the bill to protect the government's money The principal safeguard read that no loans should be made unless the corporation or association involved "has an organization and management of such character as to insure the reasonable safety of the loan" Another provision called for the securement of all loans by a lien on the commodity A third declared the loans to be made under such conditions as will prevent the corporation incurring undue risk of loss upon the sale of the commodity

There was no provision however for raising the money or for repayment to the government

Stock Market Has Overdiscounted its Earning Power, in Opinion of Sloan

Assertion of President Illustrated by Rapid Rise of General Motors

BY JAMES L. GILGALLEN

(Copyright, 1928 by I. N. S.)

New York, Dec. 3—Alfred P Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corp., is of the opinion that the New York stock market which has been cutting spectacular didoes for many weeks has overdiscounted its earning power for some time to come He said so today in an interview. He made it clear, however, that he does not class himself as an authority on the market and that he was expressing his opinion merely as an individual

There is one fundamental way to create wealth That is through work said Mr Sloan when pressed for his views on the orgy of speculation in Wall Street in which the American public is playing such a heavy part

Must Be Supported

He was referring to the huge profits that are reported to have been made by many persons on the upward swing of the market.

Anyone connected with the multitude of problems coming up daily in a large corporation is undoubtedly a poor judge of a thing like the stock market said Mr Sloan whose time and energy has been concentrated in directing the affairs of a corporation which this year will do a gross business of between $1,500,000,000 and $1,750,000,000 and show the largest profits for a single year ever made by any industrial corporation in peace time

I do not mind saying, however that my viewpoint—which is not an original one—is that the market has overdiscounted its earning power for some time to come I am speaking of the whole trend of the market and not with reference to any individual security It must be recognized that after all values can only be maintained if supported by earnings over

Work Is Fundamental

"When I hear as I frequently do of large sums being made in the stock market through the increasing values that are being established—and I realize that this is going on to a certain extent all over the country—I sometimes ask myself if from one angle it is not unfortunate for there is only one fundamental way to create wealth and that is through work

The large profits relatively overnight made through the stock market has a tendency to discount work which after all makes these things possible In the last analysis the stock market simply capitalizes and establishes a value on the constructive efforts of industry

Mr Sloan's statement that work is the fundamental way to create wealth is illustrated by the rapid rise of General Motors Corp, to its present outstanding position in the industrial world Many men who a few years ago held small blocks of stock in this company are wealthy today It is the biggest profit making organization in existence

Selling at $215

Today General Motors stock is selling, on the New York stock exchange, at around $215 a share There are 17,100,000 shares of common stock outstanding. At $215 a share the stock is worth today the staggering sum of $3,678,000,000 Contrast this with the situation only four years ago In 1924 the stock of General Motors was selling at $70 a share and there were 7,800,000 shares of common outstanding which would make the total value at that time $100,000,000

The profits made by stockholders can be illustrated in another way In 1924 there were 5,800,000 shares outstanding Without asking for a penny from stockholders and without selling a single share of common stock the big corporation split up its stock so that every person who held 100 shares now holds 300

That was made possible by the piling up of surplus due to the huge profits made over and above the cash dividends paid to the stockholders This was the result of the enormous increase in earnings and the leadership of General Motors in the field of automobile production and world wide distribution

Skyrockets in Value

Any individual who in 1924 bought

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR

100 shares of General Motors at $71 a share paid of course $7,000 Today he has 300 shares worth $215 a share, or $64,500 In the meantime he has received in actual cash dividends about half of his original investment

Mr Sloan speaks modestly of the achievements of General Motors and of his own personal ability in managing this giant corporation He was born on May 23, 1877 in New Haven Conn He was graduated as a bachelor of science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology He was an engineer He became associated with the Hyatt Roller Bearing Co of Newark N J a concern that at that time was on its last legs When young Sloan went to work for the Hyatt people the company was losing a gross business of less than $2,000 a month He ultimately became president and under his management the business passed the $30,000,000 a year mark He built the company up from a small struggling concern to a profitable institution

In 1916 when a number of accessory companies including Hyatt were grouped under one organization that of Motors Mr Sloan became its president And in 1918 when General Motors absorbed United Motors he became vice president of the parent company in charge of all accessory companies In 1920 he became

Only One Fundamental Way To Create Wealth, That's Work, He Says

operating vice president Not long afterward Pierre S. Du Pont who had become temporary president handed over the presidential reins to Mr Sloan and he has held that position ever since

Hard Work Counts

General Motors' employed capital has increased by the millions yearly under the Sloan regime The company manufactures a variety of the best known automobiles in America It has many tens of millions of dollars invested in accessory operations which contribute a reasonable return to the stockholders and naturally add to the profit account The corporation manufactures roller and ball bearings for all purposes including cars, and electric light plants for farm lighting

Through Fisher Bodies General Motors build their own automobile bodies from beginning to end The corporation owns timber tracts and saw mills They carry the operations all the way from the forest to the dealer They operate the Frigidaire having about $40,000,000 invested in this company alone They employ more than $50,000,000 in overseas automobile operations In assembly plants and in merchandising abroad

"Work—hard work that's what counts declared Mr Sloan concluding the interview

IS IT YOUR BUSINESS —OR OURS?

Suppose the Stock Fire Insurance companies had not fostered fire prevention.

Suppose they had followed the selfish principle that, no matter how great the destruction of property, rates could be adjusted accordingly.

What then would have been America's record of loss by fire?

Frightful enough it is—in spite of the efforts of the Stock Fire Insurance companies, working through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and its departments of Building Construction, Public Fire Protection, Engineering, the Arson Bureau, Underwriters' Laboratories, and other avenues of activity.

The reduction of the fire waste or the loss of life by fire is not primarily an insurance problem. The Stock Fire Insurance companies must charge for insurance on a basis sufficient to cover losses and operating expenses.

Therefore—viewing the situation from their selfish interests only—they need be no more concerned than are other industries in working toward a reduction of the fire waste.

However, for the welfare of the country as a whole the 229 Stock Fire Insurance companies which transact the great bulk of the fire insurance business voluntarily undertook the task of heading up the forces opposed to the destruction of life and property by fire.

The results have been encouraging. People are building better Obvious hazards are being removed. But there is pressing need for further improvement.

Future progress in this work depends largely upon the degree of cooperation extended by you and others in the use of available safety devices and measures, and in the elimination of the many known hazards which continue to threaten life and property.

Warning Against Fire Hazards in City's Holiday Decorations Is Issued by Chief

ASKING that citizens of Marion use every precaution possible both at home and in stores to avoid fires from inflammable Christmas decorations Fire Chief J J McFarland issued a statement today insisting that no cotton batten be used for decorative purposes unless it has been fireproofed

Danger from the use of candles on Christmas trees was also pointed out by the fire chief Electric lights are much more modern, he said but even then care must be exercised in using lighting equipment If a cheap or faulty set of Christmas tree lights is used there is danger from short circuits, McFarland stated

Fireproofing Urged

Suggesting that all decorations used here during the holiday season be thoroughly fireproofed, the chief stated that decorations of this type are now available He placed special stress on his warning in regard to cotton batten stating that it is contrary to the fire ordinance and rules of the state fire marshall to use this material unless it is fireproofed

Stringing or hanging decorations from lighting fixtures is also extremely dangerous according to the fire chief A faulty wire in the fixture may become short circuited and cause a blaze he said

In hanging decorations McFarland suggested that where streamers are to be run from side to side of a room they be divided at intervals If the decorations are hung continuously and are all attached together a fire at one section will ignite the whole affair

However, if the decorations are divided, a blaze starting in one division will be limited to that section and will not spread to the whole mass of decorations.

Santa Claus must also observe safety rules to assure Christmas and holiday observance free from mishaps here the chief states The popular distributor of gifts from the far north should make sure that his whiskers and all inflammable costume trimmings are adequately fireproofed

Youthful Musicians Show Unusual Talent in Third of Club's Recital Series

Junior Lecture-Recital Program Given in Hotel Harding Ball-Room; Try-Out for New Members Announced for Dec. 29

BY HAZEL HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

Marion's youthful musicians again displayed unusual ability as entertainers last night when the Junior Lecture Recital club gave its third program of the season The recital consisting largely of instrumental numbers, took place in the Hotel Harding ball room, beginning at 8 o'clock

Miss Dorothy Pace and Miss Mirlain Grover presented as piano selections Fragments from the Unfinished Symphony Schubert and Moon Dawn Primi Schubert's compositions were the clubs observance of the one hundredth anniversary of his death This duet and In a Rose Garden Ewing, played by Miss Helen Bailey and Miss Lillian Thomas at the closing number brought to the audience a fact not generally known that students of the piano of whatever age can accomplish musical finish with two part pieces

Beginner Shows Talent

Miss Merlyn Meseke in the second number presented her audience with Second Valse Goddart played from memory Although only a beginner in piano study Miss Meseke showed a mastery for detail in the Ling Selection Miss Kathryn Kraft, accompanied at the piano by her sister Miss Bo Kraft presented two vocal solos Little Stars Seven Stevenson and The Big Brown Bear Mana Zucca the only vocal numbers on the program, both admirably presented

Kreisler's Cradle Song a piano solo was played by Miss Dorothy Lash followed by Shepherds All and Maidens Lal Nevin played by Miss Dorothy Knauss the latter piece consisted of runs and swift fingering

The next number presented was by George Schiegle Willard Mantz and John Austin pupils of J P Stanstill and guests of the club playing Star of Hope Kennedy on two saxophones and a violin Danube Waves Dumont a saxophone and violin duet played one of the delights of the program Miss Mary Mills accompanied them at the piano

Club Membership

The club open to all students between the ages of twelve and eighteen recommended by their music teachers The tryout this year will be Dec 20 at 7 o'clock at the City Library the pupils to be heard and approved by members of the Marion Junior Lecture Recital club senior musical organization of the city No graduation program is given after the age limit has been reached but tryouts for membership in the senior club are made at that time if the junior club member is interested in belonging to this group

Miss Lois Snodgrass chairman of the junior group is interested this year in adding boys to the membership of the club, with an ultimate view of an orchestra in the future Since Miss Snodgrass was put in charge of the junior club two years ago the membership has grown from 25 members to almost 60

Open to Public

The recitals given by the club are open to any one in the city interested in the younger boys and girls of musical talent Several in the audience last night inquired about this phase of the programs The person attending does not have to be a member of the senior club or to have a child participating in the club activities and there are no admission charges Everyone is welcome to attend these meetings and is urged to do so by the officers and members of the club

Miss Alma Ruth Incoby president of the Junior Lecture Recital club made several announcements preceding opening of last night's program especially urging all present to attend the meeting to be held Jan 7 in the Hotel Harding ball room

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble

For these purposes, here is a home made medicine far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex Put this into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint This takes but a moment and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without once you have used it Keeps perfectly and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things It loosens the germ laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and 'flu' coughs

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined palatable form and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded

The President's Message.

There is nothing strikingly new or novel in President Coolidge's message to congress on the state of the union. In fact it was somewhat discounted by previous utterances by the president and by the reports of the members of his official family. Aside from his introductory felicitations, certain recommendations, and a note of warning to the country at its close, it is a plain, outspoken summary of existing conditions as he sees them. If expectation existed in any quarter that the message would follow the somewhat forceful style of the president's Armistice day address, such expectation, the message reveals, was utterly without justification.

No congress of the United States ever assembled, the president says, "has met with a more pleasing outlook than that which appears at the present time. In the domestic field there is tranquility and contentment, harmonious relations between management and wage-earner, freedom from industrial strife, and the highest record of years of prosperity. In the foreign field there is peace, the good will which comes from mutual understanding, and the knowledge that the problems which a short time ago appeared so ominous are yielding to the touch of manifest friendship."

Pointing out that the federal government has substituted for the vicious circle of increasing expenditures, increasing tax rates, and diminishing profits the charmed circle of diminishing expenditures, diminishing tax rates and increasing profits, the president alludes to the four drastic revisions of our internal revenue system, with such a resultant stimulation of business each time that a surplus has been provided. One-third of the national debt has been paid and the other two-thirds so refunded as to effect big savings of interest. The national income has increased nearly fifty per cent, and is now estimated at over $90,000,000,000. Where last June estimates showed a threatened deficit of $94,000,000 for the current fiscal year, a combination of economy and good times now indicates a surplus of $37,000,000.

The national debt was reduced $306,000,000 last year and the refunding and retirement of the second and third Liberty loans, just accomplished, will save $75,000,000 in interest charges.

"The enormous savings made," President Coolidge says, "have not been at the expense of any legitimate public need. The government plant has been kept up and many improvements are under way, while its service is fully manned and the general efficiency of operation has increased. We have been enabled to undertake many new enterprises. Among these are the adjusted compensation of the veterans of the World war, which is costing us $112,000,000 a year; amortizing our liability to the civil-service retirement funds, $20,000,000; increase of expenditures for rivers and harbors including flood control, $13,000,000; public buildings, $17,000,000. In 1928 we spent $50,000,000 in the adjustment of war claims and alien property. These are examples of a large list of items."

The president recommends the settlement of the Greek and Austrian debts on generous terms; lauds the Kellogg peace pact, which he refers to as "the most solemn declaration against war, the most positive adherence to peace, that it is possible for sovereign nations to make;" recommends that the army be kept at its present size and that the naval bill before the senate be passed with the time clause eliminated and in this connection says: "Our largest foreign interests are in the British Empire, France, and Italy. Because we are constantly solicitous for those interests, I doubt if any one would suppose that those countries feel we harbor toward them any militaristic or imperialistic design. As for smaller countries, we certainly do not want any of them. We are more anxious than they are to have their sovereignty respected. Our influence is in behalf of their independence. Cuba stands as a witness to our adherence to this principle."

Reciting the fact that the annual expenditures for all forms of veterans' relief are now $765,000,000 a year, and increasing annually, Mr. Coolidge says: "We should continue to foster this system and provide all the facilities necessary for adequate care. It is the conception of our government that the pension roll is an honor roll. It should include all those who are justly entitled to its benefits, but exclude all others." He advocates that the various public agencies now dealing with matters of veterans' relief be consolidated into one government department.

Getting to the farm problem, the president recommends the creation of a federal farm board, the establishing of central agencies or stabilizing corporations to handle surpluses and a revolving loan fund for the necessary financing until these agencies shall have developed means of financing their operations through regularly-constituted credit institutions. Such a bill should carry authority for raising the money, by loans or otherwise, necessary to meet the expense, as the treasury has no surplus, but he holds that the government should assume no responsibility in normal times for crop surpluses clearly due to overextended acreage. "Temporary expedients," he says, "though sometimes capable of appeasing the demands of the moment, can not permanently solve the surplus problem and might seriously aggravate it. Hence putting the government directly into business, subsidies, and price-fixing, and the alluring promises of political action as a substitute for private initiative, should be avoided."

The president makes evident that he is very much pleased with the aid the department of commerce has given to the business interests of the country which have materially assisted in the development of an international trade of about $9,000,000,000 annually, and he goes at some length into the progress we have made in civil aviation, our airway system now being over 17,000 miles in length, 7,500 lighted for night flying with 1,000 added lighted airways promised by the end of the fiscal year. He recommends laws to promote railroad consolidation with the view of increasing efficiency and lessening the cost of service to the public. He refers to the lessening cost of our merchant marine and the government encouragement it is receiving. He recommends an inter-American highway and speaks glowingly of the extension of the air mail service to the West Indies and Central and South American points.

Dwelling at some length on the development of our waterways and speaking in a manner friendly to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway, he takes up the subject of the irrigation of arid lands, which he commends, but at the same time holds that the program to which we are already committed will tax the resources of the reclamation fund over a period of years. He sets out that he can see how the development of the Colorado river project may be a government function so far as flood-control, irrigation and domestic water purposes are concerned, but holds that the development of power for generating electricity is a matter which the states interested must handle. He favors the renting or leasing of Muscle Shoals.

The policy of restrictive immigration, the president holds, should be maintained, and he urges that "authority be granted to the secretary of labor to give immediate preference to learned professions and experts essential to new industries. The reuniting of families should be expedited. Our immigration and naturalization laws might well be codified."

"In its economic life," the message sets out, "our country has rejected the long-accepted law of a limitation of the wage fund, which led to pessimism and despair because it was the doctrine of perpetual poverty, and has substituted for it the American conception that the only limit to profits and wages is production, which is the doctrine of optimism and hope because it leads to prosperity. Here and there the councils of labor are still darkened by the theory that only by limiting individual production can there be any assurance of permanent employment for increasing numbers, but in general, management and wage-earner alike have become emancipated from this doom and have entered a new era in industrial thought which has unleashed the productive capacity of the individual worker with an increasing scale of wages and profits, the end of which is not yet. The application of this theory accounts for our widening distribution of wealth. No discovery ever did more to increase the happiness and prosperity of the people."

The marked increase in salaries in the civil service is cited, the extensive public building program is approved; relief from double taxation is advocated for citizens doing business in the Philippines; assistance to coffee planters in Porto Rico is urged and the consolidation of all legal activities under the department of justice is recommended for action by congress.

In regard to prohibition the president says: "The country has duly adopted the eighteenth amendment. Those who object to it have the right to advocate its modification or repeal. Meantime, it is binding upon the national and state governments and all our inhabitants."

"The country is in the midst of an era of prosperity more extensive and of peace more permanent than it has ever before experienced," the president goes on to say in conclusion. "But, having reached this position, we should not fail to comprehend that it can easily be lost. It needs more effort for its support than the less exalted places of the world. We shall not be permitted to take our ease, but shall continue to be required to spend our days in unremitting toil. The actions of the government must command the confidence of the country. Without this, our prosperity would be lost. We must extend to other countries the largest measure of generosity, moderation, and patience. In addition to dealing justly, we can well afford to walk humbly."

And then the warning to which we have referred is uttered, a warning to which every patriotic American should give heed.

"The end of government is to keep open the opportunity for a more abundant life. Peace and prosperity are not finalities; they are only methods. It is too easy under their influence for a nation to become selfish and degenerate. This test has come to the United States. Our country has been provided with the resources with which it can enlarge its intellectual, moral, and spiritual life. The issue is in the hands of the people. Our faith in man and God is the justification for the belief in our continuing success."

SOME MORE EARLY SHOPPING.

Reasons for "Blue" Days.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In olden times if a man was under the weather he would say, "My liver is out of order." That was the common complaint.

The poor old liver was held responsible for half the symptoms suffered by the human family. The fact is that overeating, lack of exercise and neglect of the simplest rules of hygiene have more to do with the origin of these symptoms than any actual trouble with the liver.

I think I recited to you once a funny limerick I heard somewhere. If my memory serves it ran as follows:

"A jaundiced young gent in an attic
Once thought he had trouble hepatic.
He bought him a flivver
Which shook up his liver
And now he's mentally ecstatic."

You know the kind of a day you have once in a while. You go about your affairs, cross and sullen. You have a chip on your shoulder and fairly ache for a fight. You are blue and distressed, imagining all sorts of terrible things about the future. You even wonder if you have lost your friends and possibly your religion.

When this occurs what has happened? Is the world out of joint, or is there something actually wrong with you?

My observation of the world and its inhabitants is that they do not change much overnight. It takes a long, long time to reorganize society. If you take this view, too, you must realize that the world hasn't gone to smash. On the contrary, the trouble is that you are temporarily out of step with the world.

The young man of the limerick lived in a dark and unventilated attic, loafing and sleeping. He was eating poorly-prepared and badly selected food. Naturally he suffered the results of his wrong living. I am not surprised he thought his liver was out of order.

Perhaps you, too, spend part of your time in an attic. At least you live an attic life. You neglect exercise, fresh air and simple food. Your sleep is disturbed, your head aches, you are weak in your knees and imagine calm things. You diagnose your ailment as "liver complaint."

Driving a flivver over a rough road, driving a frisky horse, rowing a boat, regular tennis or golf, or just getting out-of-doors for real work or a long walk—any one of these will "shake up the liver" and promote your health.

There are just two ways to feel well, and both are founded on the same thing. The heart must be stimulated to beat a few times more each minute. This can be accomplished by energetic exercise. It can be accomplished by enthusiastic interest in your daily work.

To feel well, then, you must have exercise or enthusiasm. To feel twice as well you should have both.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

S. M. Q—What will help cold feet which perspire all year round?

A—What do you advise for a stomach condition which has persisted for quite a while?

A—Probably due to a circulatory disturbance. Build up your general health. Changing the shoes and stockings frequently is often helpful for perspiring feet.

2—First of all try to correct the diet and be sure that the system is kept clear. Avoid too many rich heavy foods. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

G. D. J. Q—What would cause a great many broken veins on the legs of a young woman; would light gutters cause this trouble; what will cure or prevent their spreading?

A—Undue exertion, such as long standing, etc.; keeping off the feet as much as possible and wearing an elastic stocking or bandage during the daytime should give relief. Tight, circular, garters would be a very likely cause for the trouble.

E. L. B. Q—My father who is seventy complains of pain and soreness in his back and experiences difficulty in arising after sitting for any length of time; he has a good appetite and walks daily. What would you advise?

2—I am thirty years of age, married and have two boys. I am nervous and excitable and suffer with pains in the top of my head; what causes this and what treatment will be helpful?

A—Very likely due to lumbago; try to locate a possible source of infection in his system, although the pain may be due to cold or strain. Massage and application of heat should give relief.

2—Have your blood pressure taken. This may have a bearing on your symptoms. There is always some underlying reason for nervousness.

C. B. Q—What do you advise for callouses on the soles of the feet?

A—Try bathing the feet in warm, soapy water and then applying warm linseed oil just before retiring, the next morning soak the feet again and scrape away the dead tissue. This treatment should be effective.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this paper.

Editorial Opinion.

A BLOW TO STATE SOCIALISM.

By a majority which swamped the noisy Laborite opposition, the British house of commons on Wednesday approved the government's plan to turn over its ocean cables and its radio services to a private merger.

In spite of everything that Sir John Gilmour, chairman of the imperial wireless and cable conference, which recommended the transfer, could say to convince the lawmakers that under government ownership the cables and the radio services were losing propositions, and that they were to be abandoned on advantageous terms so far as the treasury and the taxpayers are concerned, the Labor leaders fought bitterly against this departure from what they were pleased to regard as the nucleus of state socialism in Britain.

But the action of the British government comes as a sign of the times. Its sponsors made out a good case by showing that government operation in this instance was a loss and an error on purely practical grounds. As an analogy they could have pointed to America's wartime experience in the operation of railroads—a lesson which has saved this country from equally disastrous undertakings since then, if not also in times to come. The French system of government ownership extends from wireless services, cables and telegraphs to telephones. The Socialists in that country bewail all talk of a change as sacrilegious. But even the French are growing tired of getting the worst telephone service on the European continent, and the indications are that France will try to rid herself, if she can, of the telephone and other monopolies which have nothing to do with a government's proper functions. Most everywhere, outside of the hotbed of state socialism which is Soviet Russia, its prospects aren't of the brightest. — Detroit Free Press.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 4—Not every small town girl, casting her lot in the theatrical and cabaret world of Broadway, scoots to hell in a handbasket. There are many detours along the primrose path, and they are frequently taken by those who see pitfalls ahead.

Broadway places a premium on beauty. But a higher premium on purity. Ruby Keeler, for instance, fresh with girlish loveliness, came out of Nova Scotia to tap dance in what was perhaps the most notorious of the night clubs—one eventually closed by constant padlockings.

Even the White way was impressed with her obvious detachment from her sordid surroundings. She was one of "those little girls" jaded night birds were asked nightly "to give a great big hand." Her talent won her feature honors in first-rate musical and vaudeville shows and on the screen.

And it was in the hectic night resort she met one of the richest and certainly about the most popular actor on Broadway—Al Jolson. It is recent first-page news she became his bride.

Not many years ago a beautiful chorus girl at the Hippodrome suffered an illness that left her blind.

She was affianced to a talented artist of the comic strips, Jack Callahan, before her affliction, and today they are happily married, their rare devotion being one of the legends of Broadway. And there is, of course, the romance of Irving Berlin.

He came up to the Bingo-bango land of Tin Pan alley from a sawdust dive in Chinatown, where he was a singing waiter. Yet he lived cleanly and decently. His gentlemanly shyness and talent led indirectly to his marriage to one of America's most beautiful heiresses. Such instances are numerous.

All of which is convincing enough that the young men and women of Broadway who behave themselves, are not beguiled by its sham pleasures need not fear being defiled by the pitch. Broadway itself may have no code of morals, but it bends a respectful knee to those who have.

Noel Coward seems the most engaging actor England has sent to America. Not yet thirty, he is London's fair-haired boy and is likely to duplicate his popularity on Broadway. He is now clicking in a hit revue for which he wrote the book, lyrics and music. He scored several years ago as a straight dramatic star in a play of his own. In his revue he displays his versatility in singing, dancing and comedy roles. And until a better one is suggested I shall continue to regard "This Year of Grace" the best named of all revues.

Mr. Coward is no Adonis. He has large translucent ears that would shame the eminent Will Hays, but like Mr. Hays overwhelms with sheer personality. Mr. Coward captures his audiences despite co-starring with the ubiquitous Beatrice Lillie, which statement will not add one cubit to my stature with the intelligentzia or the critics who hailed her with a huzzah. There is a near-society crowd which goes into an ecstasy of frenzy over Miss Lillie because she is Lady Something or Other. On opening night they organized into such an annoying claque with their absurd plaudits they had to be hissed down.

Miss Lillie was amusing in her early appearance in Charlot's revue, imported from London several years ago. But to me she has grown rather tiresome with her worn-out trick of missing a step and singing off key. But it is with these obvious and moth-eaten gestures she brings her fervid followers to heel. Certainly no actress has ever received a more rousing first-page accolade. O, yes, in English revues the "intermission" is the "Interval." Isn't that topping, no end?

A gentleman's clothing parlor on the avenue has dispensed with male mannikens. They embarrassed prospective patrons with their collar ad. profiles and studied clothes consciousness. Men who bought suits expecting to look like them, took their purchases home, tried them on and looked in the glass. Write your own ending.

The most brilliant, at least socially, of the theatrical first nights since the Follies ceased to function is "a Gershwin show"—that is one with music by George Gershwin. Gertrude Lawrence shines—perhaps shone, by this time—in his latest. The intellectual cream gathers at the opening of those. O-the-Agony-of-It things presented by the pale Eve Le Gallienne at her civic repertory playhouse.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Resurrected Suns.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The latest science affirms that the sun is using itself up—devouring itself, so to speak, in the act of radiating heat, light, etc., to surrounding space. The average layman who has not studied the subject says, when he hears this: "Why, of course, it must be so; doesn't every fire burn itself out by using up its fuel?"

For the average layman persists in thinking of the sun as a burning body, although for a long time past science has been asserting that there is no fire and no burning in the sun. The sun is hot, yes, but it is the heat of incandescent gas that is concerned, and that gas is not burning like the gas of the old-fashioned house light. The sun is a vast globe in which all the elements of matter exist in the gaseous state, at a temperature which increases from about 6,000 degrees centigrade at the surface to probably many millions at the center.

Yet, although the sun is not burning up like a heap of coal, nevertheless it is wearing itself away in keeping its light, heat and other radiant energies going. If you insist on thinking of the sun as a furnace which keeps the earth warm, you must substitute for lumps of coal the infinitely smaller articles of matter called atoms, and for the process of burning you must substitute a process of atomic destruction which releases the energy locked up in the atoms, and by virtue of which they, and the matter that they constitute, exist.

For the using up of the sun means the annihilation of the atoms of which its gases are composed. When the atoms are annihilated the electricity that is the soul and body of their being is changed into something which is perhaps pure energy. You must here think of something not easy to represent to the imagination, viz., electricity in the form of matter. The modern doctrine is that electricity, although in itself it can not be seen or handled, and is too mysterious to be understood at all except through some of its effects, nevertheless constitutes all matter, i. e., everything that is—solid, liquid, gaseous or what not. It does this by assuming two opposite states, positive electricity and negative electricity, and in this dual form combining to form atoms, which have been called the bricks with which matter is built up.

When the atom is annihilated electricity, as we have just seen, remains. It is the combination called an atom that has been annihilated, not the electricity itself. If the constitution and related laws that make the American nation were destroyed, the result would be the annihilation of the political unit, or atom, named the United States, but the people would remain with all their spiritual and intellectual powers and qualities, ready to form another union.

In like manner, according to the latest science, the electricity released by the annihilation of the atoms in the sun and the other stars is free to combine into new atoms, and this is the great romance of the regeneration of the universe which Doctor Millikan and his associates have lately been bringing before the bewildered public mind with their studies of the strange "cosmical rays" which stream out of open space, and apparently indicate a process which has no other conceivable raison d'etre than that it is the "birth throe" of new atoms born out in the cold and freedom of space by the reconstruction of matter through the reunion of positive and negative electric elements into the atomic form.

Great is God, and science is becoming His prophet! — Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

There are those who believe we have all lived upon the earth before and that we go merely to come again. They believe in what they call reincarnation. We come back in higher form, as a finer type of personality, if we win that right by our behavior now. It would seem that there might be some foundation for this faith. How does man come by his finest impulses? Why does he visualize ideals and strive to realize them? Somebody has said, "We come from a world where we have known incredible standards of excellence. And we dimply remember beauties which we have not seized again. And we go each to that world.

In a verse of that splendid hymn one reads:

"O beautiful for pilgrim feet,
Whose stern, impassioned stress,
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wilderness."

And indeed our forefathers had a certain passion for freedom of worship and expression. They fled to the unknown wilderness of America to find it. They made, indeed, a path of freedom. But they had weaknesses which we have inherited. What they sometimes called freedom was rather an insistance on having their own way against the wishes and rights of others. Early churchmen made a great deal of freedom, sung its praises, journeyed afar to find it, but they weren't above persecuting Quakers and others.

A path of freedom through the wilderness is not a path of freedom if it is only our path.

Discipline is exercise for the soul. Whatever church we may or may not belong to it will be an excellent thing for us to deny ourselves something very definite and pleasant during that season of the year called Lent. If we suffer a little, it's the discipline that makes us strong. No use giving up anything if there's no sacrifice in it, no discipline.

Many young men of the present crop can not understand why they can not step from school, or from the nursery for that matter, right into a good job paying a large salary. They hope and confidently expect to skip all the processes of drudgery. Strange that their education, so-called, hasn't taught them better than that. Good crops do not spring full grown out of the ground. Even flowers as beautiful as a college boy or girl do not grow to the full height of beauty between sunset and dawn. It was Margaret Fuller, a wise woman, who wrote:

"Drudgery is as necessary to call out the treasures of the mind as harrowing and planting those of the earth."

Even very young people ought to be able to understand that there are processes of training that are necessary to achievement:—even to the safe holding of a fair job.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Friday.

Austria warned Servia against further aggressiveness on the Austrian frontier.

Governor Curtis Guild, of Massachusetts, held Speaker Cannon and congress responsible for the deaths of Old Bay state boys who were sent, with obsolete guns, against the up-to-date Mausers of the Spaniards, claiming that congress had refused to meet the recommendations of the president and the secretary of war.

The coroner's inquest developed the fact that J. W. C. Jackson did not attempt to assault Erie Detective H. R. Curry and was shot a second time after he dropped to the ground.

A marriage license was issued to Mrs. Nina L. Deal and Charles H. Myers.

BROADCAST FROM THEATER

Wednesday Radio Bill

A portion of the Chicago Civic Opera company's production of Wagner's 'Lohengrin' will be broadcast as the Balkite hour feature direct from the stage of the Auditorium theater in Chicago through the WJZ network at 10 o'clock Wednesday night.

Lambert Murphy, American tenor, will appear as guest soloist in La Traviata concert to be broadcast through the WEAF network of the NBC system at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Among Mr. Murphy's numbers are the "Flower Song," from Bizet's opera "Carmen," and "Siciliana," from Mascagni's "Cavelleria Rusticana." A selection of Broadway show hits, which include "Blue Shadows" from Earl Carroll's "Vanities," "Pretty, Petite and Sweet" and "Three Cheers" will also be sung by Mr. Murphy.

Marking the first anniversary of the Palmolive hour on the air, Director Gustave Haenschen has planned a special program for the concert to be broadcast through the WEAF network of the NBC system at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Three orchestra features have been selected for the occasion. They are Goldmark's "In the Garden" from "Rural Wedding," the fantasie "Among My Souvenirs" and Friml's selection from "White Eagle," with accompaniment by the Palmolive ensemble. The chorus will open the hour with Kern's "Wild Rose."

Leslie Frick, contralto soloist, will be heard with the Jeddo Highlanders as a feature of the program over the WJZ network at 7 o'clock Wednesday night.

THERE is no excuse for a drought to reach Rosalie through the opening of her new carcul jacket because it slips over her head. What opening there is is concealed by a velvet lined jabot which matches one on her muff. And her cap of the same fur boasts a fur flower. Only a velvet skirt could do justice to such an ensemble and we hope it's the new whiterproof velvet because snowdrops wouldn't be kind to transparent velvet.

Social Activities

SEVENTY tables arranged for cards brought together 300 guests and members of the Federation of Catholic Women at the bridge and euchre party given by the federation last night in Schwinger's hall. The party launched the social activities of the federation which is one of the newest women's civic groups to be organized in the city, and was one of the most delightful social events of the holiday season. Following the cards an entertaining musical program was presented followed by a luncheon.

Welcoming the guests were Mrs. N. L. Gebhart, president of the federation, and Mrs. James F. Prendergast, social chairman. They were assisted by a group of officers and members of the organization which included Mrs. A. C. Edmondson, Mrs. C. C. Fye, Mrs John K. Schwinger, Mrs. John McNamara, Mrs. A. L. Bintz, Mrs. Albert Reidenbaugh, Mrs. John Rubeck, Mrs. Robert Ramroth and Mrs. C. C. Brown, who served as chairman of the refreshment committee.

Awards for high scores at bridge were won by Miss Kathryn Burke, Miss Kathleen Starner, Clarence Bowe and Lawrence Cheney, and in euchre Mrs. Mayme Hogan, Mrs. Leo Wolfe, Michael Moran and Maurice Tobin were awarded honors. Miss Elizabeth Burke received the door award.

Mrs. Pauline Corbett Warner entertained with a charming group of vocal numbers, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Helen Zuck Lacey, who also played the accompaniments for a group of pleasing vocal numbers by Misses Frances and Corinne Lacey, and Fred and John Lacey, and for the violin numbers by Miss Margaret Hoover. Completing the program, which was in charge of Miss Kathryn Burke, was an entertaining reading by Miss Jean Drake.

Guests included Mrs Charles Dolin, Mrs. Pauline Corbett Warner and Miss Mary J. Knoppe, of Columbus, guests of Mrs. Gebhart.

Fashion's Forecast

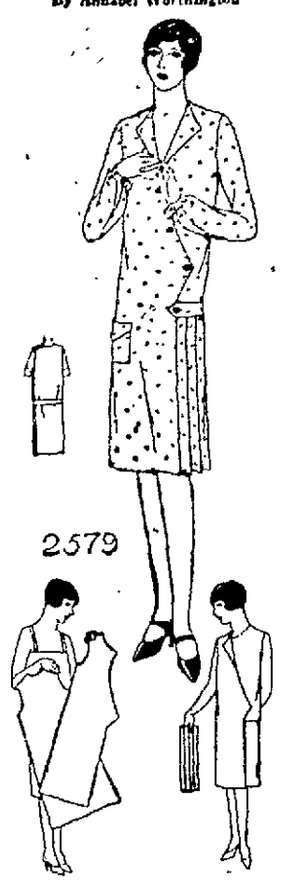
By Annabel Worthington



IT'S NEW!

Cluster kilted plaits animate new straightline dress of patterned jersey with zigzag closing bodice, giving a chic one sidedness. The belt marks higher waistline, typical of the latest Parisian sports clothes. It tops plaits and crosses back, leaving front of dress perfectly free, creating a trim slender line. Patch pocket with envelope flap, is a new style detail. The becoming neckline is made by underfacing fronts and rolling in revers. The plaits are a separate piece of material stitched to left side of bodice, after which it is ready to join fronts of dress to back (sides and shoulders. It is youthful in sheer tweed, lustrous crepe satin, canton-faille crepe, printed velveteen, velvet, flat silk crepe and printed sheer velvet. Style No. 2579 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Here's Real Relief From Neuritis

In 24 to 48 Hours You Get Rest and Comfort Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-rucking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not entirely banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue taking them for two or three days more and thus prevent an early return of the torture.

It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs. Henney & Cooper says these little wonder-working capsules must banish all pain and torture in 5 days or money cheerfully refunded.—Adv.

An Unusual Romance of Love and Sacrifice

BY HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER THIRTY ONE

"How Crystal's getting along just fine!" Mrs. Haines told the neighbors, especially Mrs. Turner whose Betty May had just got married with a great flourish of tulle and orange blossoms, and her picture in the San Jose paper.

But in her heart she was worried, terribly worried. Why didn't Crystal marry McKevitt when she had the chance, instead of running wild with writers, and running up the bills, and hardly a note to her own mother!

"Of course it's lovely that Betty May got married," she told Mrs. Turner, with her voice like honey and her heart bitter as gall, in her mouth. "I've had Betty May's picture in the paper twice now. It looked like she had a cast in one eye. Yes, she'll make a real nice little wife. I always say if a girl has no talent for a career she may as well get married. If my Crystal wasn't so talented I'd want her to. Did I tell you they're all talkin' about her water-color pictures?"

"Yes, you did," Mrs. Turner said quickly. "But you haven't mentioned Daphne in a long time. I wouldn't be surprised if she'd get married. The men always like that soft, gentle kind like her and Betty May."

Daphne . . . always Daphne . . . .

She had been such a quiet, inconspicuous child, who would have thought so many would remember her?

Even the tradesmen, who came to bring the meat and vegetables asked, "How's the little girl, Mrs. Haines? I mean the little black haired one, Daphne—"

And never a question about Crystal the apple of her eye. It hurt.

"The butcher boy was asking about Daphne today," she told old man Haines, bitterly. "It sounds fine, I must say. I gave him a piece of my mind!"

"Oh he didn't mean anything," the old man said amiably. "She had that mild way about her. You'd be surprised how many folks ask about her, they all seem to like her. It makes me feel kinda bad, not having any news."

"It makes a monkey out of you!" his wife returned, quick to take the advantage. "And a lot she cares how cheap you look. I don't want to make you any worry, but I tell you if she was my daughter, and the butcher boy acted like he did, I'd worry, I would. I must say it looked funny the way she left all of a sudden without stopping to half pack and—"

But he was used to her tantrums now. He didn't half listen. "Yes, Adelina." he'd mumble, rattling the newspaper. "Yes, yes"

A lot of satisfaction trying to talk to him. Getting too old and childish to even listen! "Oh, why did I marry him?" she mourned. "If I hadn't come out here in this God-forsaken farm I'd have my baby with me yet. Crystal would never have left me if I'd stayed in town . . . Him and his daughter, bah!"

She looked at his shiny, bald head . . . ugh! And his sagging jowls, and his loose, weak mouth . . . "Buried alive! That's what I am. Buried out here, with that!"

Getting feeble too. Next thing he'd be bedridden. Helpless.

He had fallen asleep over his papers. His head had fallen forward, his mouth was open, the lower jaw dropped. He looked like . . . like . . .

"Abner! Wake up!" she screamed, and shook him savagely.

"What's that? You call me, Adelina?" he mumbled thickly, struggling back to consciousness.

"Yes I did. I'm sick and tired of seeing you fall asleep every two minutes. Can't you keep awake at all?"

"I'm awake, wide awake—perfly wide awake." This time he snored, and with a snort of disgust she went into the pantry and looked at the top shelf, where, hidden behind the canned tomatoes, she had hidden a squat green bottle. Peach brandy. She had found it in the cellar, in a dark, dusty corner. Four bottles, just alike. Neatly arranged, one behind the other, flanked by mildewed jelly marked "Plum, 1897", and a stone crock of something that once upon a time was apple butter. Somebody's forgotten horde. Abner's mother's, most likely. "She musta liked her little drink!" Adelina said to herself, bringing the four green bottles into the light. "Well, it'll be good in case of sickness."

She wasn't sick, exactly, but she wasn't well, either. How could anyone be well, with Abner looking like a corpse one minute, and snoring fit to kill the next? So she had opened the first bottle, "to quiet the nerves," and then the next, and now only one was left.

"If I had a doctor it' just what he's prescribe," she told herself, pouring a little into an egg cup. And I ought to have a doctor, I'm that nervous, only Abner is getting so stingy I hardly have the strength to fight for one!"

Crystal wouldn't have recognized her mother if she had come upon her suddenly in the pantry, and seen this old woman with her bloated face and unkempt hair, holding the egg-cup in her trembling hands. Adelina Garroty Haines, who a few short months ago had been almost young!

But Crystal wasn't there to see. No one but Abner, and Abner didn't count.

Sometimes Adelina turned from her mirror with loathing for herself. She would pat her double chin, pull the sagging contours of her face upward. "If anything happens to Abner, I'll have plenty to do with. I'll have my face lifted, lots of women do. An' I'll diet—"

But no use bothering now. Time enough . . . later.

"If anything happens to Abner . ." "After Abner's gone . . ." It was her consolation at first. She searched his face avidly for signs of "something" happening . . . the man couldn't last forever. She read what the fat brown doctor book had to say about apoplexy. He had all the symptoms.

For a while she was happy. Planning. Planning great things. But the habit grew, she began to plan in the night, after the lights were out. Sleep went away. She lay panting and tossing in the dark . . . To wake and find him dead beside her, his jaw fallen, his fat face gray . . .

Sometimes she would wake up screaming, the rattle of the hearse in her ears, the feel of clammy flesh upon her . . .

"What's the matter, Adelina?" he would ask, startled.

And she couldn't tell him. She could never tell anyone. But the peach brandy helped a little, and waiting for Crystal's letters kept her mind partially off her troubles.

Crystal's letters came so seldom. When they did come, they were always just alike.

"Dear mama,

Hope you are well, I am fine, and doing well at school. Everything is high, I simply have to have more money. If you don't want to send it, all right, only let me know, because I am going to get from somebody, or know the reason why.

I suppose Haines will live forever. I'll bet if I was in your shoes I could raise some money. I'd get it out of him, or take it out of his hide. Will write soon and tell you all the news,

Your loving daughter,

Crystal.

P. S. I have a couple of hundred dollars worth of bills, and I need money besides."

Adelina carried that last letter around with her, and the crisp gold lined curelope crackled in her bosom.

"I gotta get it out of him somehow," she whispered to herself. She had gone through his pockets while he slept, but what did he have? A few nickels.

"I gotta find some way!"

Old Man Haines, grown "light" again, now that the honeymoon was over, snored in his rocker by the stove. Adelina listened, hating him, turning it over and over in her mind.

In Paris!

Now, American girls are showing the French how to wear clothes! Doris Padmore, lovely New York City girl whose home is at 70 Barrow street, is in Paris, displaying gowns for Jean Patou, the famous French designer.

The girls over there have another trick to learn from her. She says: "Everyone marvels at the luster and softness of my hair. Many of the girls ask me if I use brilliantine. I always delight in telling the easy way we New York girls take care of our hair. All we do is just put a few drops of Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. The first few times I used it all my dandruff disappeared and since then it gives new sparkle and life to our hair. It keeps it in place, too, and like I arrange it and makes my curls adhere [illegible] I don't have [illegible] nearly so often, either, now I'm using Danderine."

Every application of Danderine invigorates every scalp. It removes dandruff, and every penny you spend for it comes back many times over in beauty. It destroys dandruff germs, checks falling hair, stimulates the scalp, and [illegible]

If I Were A Man | If I Were A Girl

BY JILL

I WOULDN'T have one "line" and use it to death. I'd say different things to different girls, and I'd try to mean what I said. A single line with no variations shows a man up as totally lacking in imagination. I wouldn't greet every girl I met with: "Where have you been all my life?" I wouldn't tell her she was "wonderful" and go into ecstasies over her eyes and hair and the way she danced—unless, of course, it happened to be true. All girls like flattery, but they like it administered subtly: they don't like it hurled in heavy bricks composed of stock phrases showing signs of wear. I wouldn't tell exactly the same things to Mary, Jane and Sue this week, and repeat them all over again to Katherine, Mabel and Alice next week. I wouldn't call a girl "honey" and myself "papa"—and then hand out the same titles and the same compliments to the next one I happened to meet. Sincerity goes a lot farther with a girl than a "line."

BY JACK

I WOULDN'T call down my husband in public. A man likes to give the impression he's boss—even if he isn't—and nothing injures his self-respect so much as a scene. Besides, I'd be ashamed to admit to the world I'd made a mistake in choosing my man, and a public call-down would be public acknowledgment of error. I'd try to register the fact that John and I get along beautifully, even if we didn't, and I wouldn't inflict our disagreements on the helpless bystander. If Hobby didn't leap quickly to his feet when Mrs. Smith entered the room, or held the door open for Mrs. Jones—if he trumped my trick or told too broad a story at dinner, I'd merely smile sweetly and turn the conversation elsewhere. I'd play the proud and satisfied wife as long as there was anyone else in sight, and then—I'd take him firmly by the hand and lead him home to the curtain lecture he deserved.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY was a little colder when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, but it wasn't snowing and hadn't snowed. I was wishing that it would snow every night so that I could make some money clearing off sidewalks every morning and get some spondulix to buy something for somebody for Christmas. And then I was wishing the fat man had had his car smashed a little, because then he would of tried to knock Mr. Farrell bottom side up, and Mr. Farrell is Irish and no one can knock an Irishman bottom side up without getting into a fight.

This morning I let Jubilee down and milked and fed the cows and looked after my stores, and everything, and the bunch began to mosey into the barn all bunched up to keep warm. Yonnie and Fonnie and Margie the girl which got fascinated where she thought it wouldn't show but does show dresses got showers hadn't come. Then I took the milk in to strain it and they were in the kitchen setting when I got there and my father always gets sore when they [illegible] and gets sore when I [illegible] setting [illegible] up in the [illegible] and [illegible] would watch my father take something on his fork and then would watch it all the ways to his mouth and then she would watch his fork go back after more. She acted him once if he knowed that his mouth flew open every time his elbow bent and he said that was old stuff, and then he took a drink of coffee and Freble took his napkin and wiped his mouth for him. When she done that my grandfather snorted just as he had started to drink some coffee and made me wish I had an umbrella and my father jumped up from the table and him and my uncle went to work, and we all went out to go to school. I thought my mother would be sore at Freble and never want her to come again, but Freble put her arms around my mother's neck and kissed her and said she wished she had a sister like her. My [illegible] looked as pleased as if [illegible] stuck an all-day sucker in [illegible] like he did enough to [illegible]

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Avoids a Possible Quarrel

I BRACED myself for an unpleasant interview as Lillian, patently much disturbed, asked where Marion was. I was furious with myself for having permitted my friend's young daughter to go to the ocean with Ronald Brixton, yet at the same time something sneaking sympathetic with the young things, stirred in my heart, turned my anger partly against Lillian for the rigid regime in which she held Marion.

"She's gone to the ocean with Ronald Brixton to see the sunrise," I told her bluntly.

Lillian sat down heavily in the nearest chair, and stared at me.

"Did you tell her she could go?" she asked after an instant, "or did she make the trip without asking permission?"

"Don't you know your own daughter better than that speech would indicate," I asked her crossly, glad of the opportunity to "get the first whack in" as Dicky sometimes describes my tactics in our marital controversies. "She asked me very prettily if she could go. She also asked me, as did Donald, to go with them, but I hope I know when I am superfluous cargo."

She winced as if I had struck her.

Don't just shout it, Madge," she said. "I know I'm ridiculous, and please believe that I'm not blaming you in the least. I know you acted as you would have done if Marion had been your daughter instead of mine——"

"I trust you believe that," I said a bit stiffly, and she lifted her head and looked me squarely in the eyes.

"Do you doubt it?" she countered, and I saw in her eyes the same tension and resentment which I knew was mirrored in my own. I suddenly realized that Lillian and I were nearer a quarrel than we ever had been in our long and close association. I resolved to move and speak most warily.

"Of course not," I said. "The question was rather a difficult one to decide. Mary suggested the trip at sunrise as there was no moon last night for our stunt of seeing the ocean by moonlight."

"Mary!" Lillian ejaculated, and the way she spoke the name of Dicky's niece showed her irritation at the girl. "She's filled Marion full of romantic nonsense about this 'nifty collegiate' as she calls him, and she's egging on their association in every way she can. I don't like it, Madge—oh! I don't mean this particular trip this morning—that's harmless enough, but it's the whole idea. This boy and Marion must be interested in each other—did you see how he looked at her when they were introduced, and how he watched her all through dinner?"

I nodded, repressing a smile at the distinct note of maternal pride in her voice, called forth by the very admiration which she deplored.

"Of course I saw it," I returned crossly. "You'd better get Marion a yashmak if you think you're going to be able to keep young men's admiring eyes from resting on her face. She's altogether too sweet like you as you must have been at her age, to isolate and humanize her from masculine admiration."

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

OFFICIALS QUIET ON SLAYING OF WOMAN

Brick Used by Dayton Murderer To Batter Nurse to Death

Dayton Dec 4—If police continued with one of the most brutal murders in Dayton's history, the slaying of Miss Anna Keough, 68, practical nurse who was found dead in her bed here yesterday afternoon have found any clue to the identity of the murderer or have established a motive for the crime they refused to state today

Detectives last night intimated they had a 'lead' on the slayer and certain information regarding the motive for the crime but today would not elaborate on either

Miss Keough was murdered by repeated blows upon her head with a brick Bits of brick were found imbedded in her scalp but that the woman had fought desperately for life was indicated by Coroner John W Terrence who stated death had not been instantaneous following the attack

It is believed the woman was murdered Friday night Miss Grace La Masters, occupying an apartment in the rear of Miss Keough's told police she heard an elderly man enter the nurse's room that night with the salutation you didn't recognize me, did you?

Blood stains were splattered on window curtains the murderer having apparently reached through them to pull down the shades to conceal his crime Fingerprints were sought by detectives but whether or not they were successful in their quest was not disclosed

FAIL TO FIND GEMS ON SHIP SUNK IN WAR

Nantes—Two million dollars worth of diamonds which were thought to be in the captain's cabin of the Belgian liner Elisabeth 11e' when it was torpedoed by a German submarine eleven years ago cannot be found

Early in August divers from the Belgian salvage steamer 'Artigha' after very great efforts managed to bring the liner's safe to the surface of the water but it was found to contain only documents The diamond treasures were apparently placed elsewhere by the captain who went down with his ship

The divers have abandoned the search for the moment after recovering a large quantity of valuable ivory from the wreck

TRUNK OWNERSHIP DENIED BY THREE

Grewsome Find—Babe Dead Several Years—Made by Man

Columbus, Dec. 4—With three persons, two women and one man, denying ownership of the "death trunk" in which the body of a 6 months-old infant was found late yesterday, Columbus police today were confronted with a brutal, baffling murder mystery in which clues were conspicuous by their absence.

James V. Emig, warehouseman, discovered the body when he prepared to sell the trunk for delinquent storage charges yesterday. Emig immediately notified police of his gruesome find and Coroner Joseph Murphy, who examined the body, declared the child's skull had been fractured, but whether the fracture had been made before or after death was conjectural.

Emig told police that Mrs. Williams, Columbus, stored the trunk with other household effects on Oct. 20, and that the woman claimed all furniture, except the trunk, on Jan. 26, 1927.

When questioned by detectives, Mrs. Williams said the trunk belonging to her brother's wife, Mrs. Ed Hahn, but the latter also disclaimed ownership of the trunk, declaring it might have belonged to other tenants in an apartment house here from which they moved several years ago.

Efforts are being made to trace the elusive owner of the trunk, but the fact that the infant probably died at least two or more years ago and that the trunk has changed hands several times in the interim rendered the detectives' task a hard one.

Sex of the infant has not yet been determined.

TARIFF REVISION MAY BE LIMITED

Longworth Declares Proposals Should Cause No Uneasiness

Washington, Dec. 4—Revision of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law which will be undertaken by the new Republican congress may be limited in its scope to a comparatively few industries and schedules, Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Republican of Ohio, speaker of the house, said today.

He declared the proposed revision should cause no uneasiness in business circles which sometimes are disturbed while congress is milling its way through the thousands of items which make up a tariff law.

"I am in hopes that hearings of the ways and means committee will develop facts that will show a necessity for change in only a few schedules of the tariff law," said Longworth.

"The present law has worked so well that a great many industries feel that they are now afforded the ample protection provided in the Republican tariff policy."

COUNTY LEAGUES TO PLAY FRIDAY

Cage Season Opens With 3 Games This Week

HIGH SCHOOL FIVES WILL START DRIVE FOR CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ten of 11 Teams To See Action on Five Courts in Openers

AFTER several weeks devoted to assistant practice, the annual drive of 11 teams for the Marion county high school basketball championship will get going with a bang Friday night on five courts.

With the exception of one, every county high school will be represented in the league this season with both boys and girls' teams. Meeker is the only school not playing this season.

Most of the teams in the county have had pre-season games but Friday's games will mark the formal opening of league battles. Early contests have given coaches a fair idea of what to expect from their aggregations. Rough spots have been polished off and every school will place a team of veterans on the floor in the opener.

The county league, as has been the case in the past, is divided into two sections—the east and west. The winners of the race in each section will clash at the close of the season for the county championship and the right to enter Marion in the Class B basketball tournaments next spring.

Teams playing in the county high loops this season are: East—Waldo, Pleasant, Claridon, Martel, Cale Iowa and Kirkpatrick; West—Prospect, Green Camp, Latitue, Agosta and Morral.

The following is the opening schedule which will see all teams in action with the exception of Latitue.

East Section

Waldo at Caledonia.
Martel at Claridon
Kirkpatrick at Pleasant.

West Section

Green Camp at Prospect.
Morral at Agosta

Baseball Managers Meet In Toronto

ARRIVAL OF HUGGINS WITH CHECKBOOK IS AWAITED BY CLUBS

Cleveland, Boston and St. Louis Interested in Intentions of Milller

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 4—Everybody had done approximately nothing with great perseverance for the last 24 hours, so they retired to the lounge this morning for a much needed rest while awaiting the arrival of the early morning train, bearing the mail, the milk and Miller Huggins. The latter, sole proprietor of the only fountain pen in baseball that starts writing spontaneously and without reluctance, was expected to inject the spice of life into the impending convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

It is men like Mr. Huggins who make life worth the tremendous effort involved in living it. He isn't satisfied with a world's championship ball club that won its title in the minimum number of four games with a maximum number of base hits. He is all for tearing that club up and blowing some of the pieces hence.

Cleveland Sore

The Greetings club, an organization inspired by some lofty purpose which, unfortunately, I have forgotten, will not be found wanting in this emergency. Among the greeters on duty will be Billy Evans and Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland club, Bob Quinn, of Boston, Dan Howley, of St. Louis, and a lot of other guys who are sure they can do Mr. Huggins no good in a big broad way. It is my understanding that the Cleveland outfit means to blandish him with fair words about George Uhle the pitcher who forgets to win ball games every other year. In the course of events the 1929 season would be one in which George's memory was due to function again. But Cleveland is not committed to philanthropy it wants something, even for a memory.

The meeting will afford Huggins his first chance to talk to Quinn about the proposed New York Boston trade. The Yankee manager once said that he was willing to sacrifice Bob Meusel to get the man he wanted. At that time, it was suspected that he was referring to Charley Ruffing, but now the understanding is that Ed Morris is the young man in question. Dugan, Robertson, Pat Collins, Grabowski and Gazelle are believed to be employes who are definitely on the block. Meusel merely was mentioned by way of showing the extent of Huggins' concern for the future welfare of the ball club.

Harris Is Due

Another optimistic note was sounded with the expected arrival of Stanley Harris, the new Detroit manager. Mr. Harris is a very avid tracer whenever he is convinced that he is about to get no worse than the better of it.

Deals with the minor leagues are much more readily and effectively consummated as a matter of fact, and with full representations from the International, American Association and Western league on hand and a scattering of offers from the Coast league, Texas league and Southern Association, a lot of things may happen.

Meantime Mike Kelly, Minneapolis magnate, had declared himself back in as manager of the club thereby reversing himself on the decision he made early in the fall.

The Association declared for its draft regulations to remain as is and appointed the veteran Joe Cantillon as umpire in chief at a salary of $7,000 a year.

Ohio Conference Schools Draw Up Grid Schedules

COLUMBUS, Dec. 4—Another season's football games in the Ohio conference had been tentatively scheduled here today. It was revealed at the close of the coaches conference here that it was impossible to complete the entire schedule for 17 Ohio conference teams in one day and that the open dates in the schedules would have to be filled by correspondence.

The Ohio conference managers' association which met in conjunction with the coaches advocated an earlier date for opening practice sessions and a later date for the opening game. The association voted to allow practice to start Sept. 10, and the playing of the first game be held until the final Saturday in September.

The association's officers were re-elected as follows: R. F. Martin, Otterbein, president; Robert Fletch er, Case, secretary; and Herman Sayger, Heidelberg, vice president.

Schedules as tentatively drawn up show a strengthening of old alignments and a very few new ones formed.

The schedules:

Sept. 28—Kent at Oberlin—Mt. Union at Michigan; Ohio Northern at Michigan Aggies; Otterbein at Wooster; Antioch at Capital.

Oct. 5—Kent at Akron; Baldwin Wallace at Case; Wooster at Hiram; Heidelberg at Ohio Wesleyan; Ohio Northern at Oberlin; Defiance at Mt. Union; Miami at Western Reserve.

Oct. 12—Wooster at Akron; Case vs Hiram, at Hiram or Youngstown; Kent at Heidelberg; Mt. Union at Oberlin; Denance at Concordia, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Capital at Baldwin Wallace; Otterbein at Marietta; Dayton at Detroit.

Oct. 19—Hiram at Capitol, Oberlin at Case; Heidelberg at Wittenberg, Mt. Union at Wooster; Otterbein at Ohio Northern, Kent vs Kenyon place undecided; Bluffton at Defiance; Ohio University at Marietta.

Oct. 18—Findlay at Bowling Green.

Oct. 26—Akron at Oberlin; Baldwin Wallace at Hiram; Case at Mt Union, Otterbein at Heidelberg; Wooster at Ohio Northern, Kent at John Carroll, Defiance at Findlay, Bowling Green at Toledo.

Nov. 2—Hiram at Akron; Ohio Northern at Baldwin Wallace; Case at Michigan Aggies; Muskingum at Mt. Union; Oberlin at Wooster, Bowling Green at Defiance; Capital at Otterbein.

Nov. 9—Ohio Northern at Akron; Case at Wooster; Hiram at Buffalo, N. Y., Kenyon at Mt. Union; Oberlin at Miami, Bluffton at Bowling Green, Capital at Marietta, St Xavier at Dayton.

Nov. 16—Akron at Case; Baldwin Wallace at Kent; Defiance at Capital (Nov 15) Hiram at Otterbein; Heidelberg at Ohio Northern, Western Reserve at Oberlin; Wooster at Muskingum; Quantico Marines at Dayton.

Nov. 23—Hiram at Mt. Union; Bowling Green at Kent; Defiance at Toledo.

Nov. 28—Akron at Mt. Union; Western Reserve at Case.

GUY STONER NAMED COUNTY BASKETBALL LEAGUE PRESIDENT

14 Teams Enter Loop; Play Will Start Here Dec. 18

GUY STONER, United Brethren church of Marion, will again head the Marion County Sunday School basketball league following his reelection to the presidency at a meeting of loop teams last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Joe Baker Calvary, was named vice president and treasurer and James Lingo, Sr., of Epworth M. L. secretary completing the organization of the loop. The final meeting when the complete schedule for the year is to be drawn up will be held at the Y. Monday night. All entries must be in at that time.

Fourteen teams have been entered in the three leagues. The senior loops are made up of the following: Waldo, Christian, Baptist, Epworth Calvary and United Brethren. The intermediate and junior league will be made up of teams from Calvary, Trinity Baptist, Epworth and Christian churches.

In the rules adopted this year the Senior loop will be made up of players 18 years old and above. The Intermediate loop will be open for youths between the ages of 15 to 17 years, inclusive. The Junior players must be under 15 years of age.

It was decided that no player attending college will be eligible for participation on any team. Members of high school basketball teams of the city and county will also be ineligible.

Senior and Intermediate leagues will open the season on Dec. 18 playing on the two floors at the Y. M. C. A. The Junior cagers will see action on Saturday afternoons starting Dec. 22.

DUNDEE LOSES

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 4—Johnny Dundee's campaign to fool father time by regaining the pugilistic heights has suffered a set back. The former featherweight champion showed only a flash of his old time form against the youthful Jackie Pilkington of New York in a 10 round bout here last night and lost the decision.

You can be courteously listen to another man's talk that you forget what he is talking about.

CHANGE TEAMS

Industrial League Ready For Opening Games Next Monday

Two changes were made in team names at a meeting of the Marion Industrial league last night. The C. D. & M. will play with the Kippos while the Hocking Valley has been added to the Power Manufacturing quintet.

The season will open in Star auditorium next Monday night with three games scheduled. The annual drive for the sale of season tickets is under way. Officials of the loop are looking for a high successful season.

TO MEET COLUMBUS

The Marion Y. M. C. A. volleyball team will play its first out of town contest Friday night at Columbus. In the opening match of the season the first and second squads won in straight games from Tiffin.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Philadelphia—Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight won decision over Bill Hartwell, Kansas City negro, 10.

At Baltimore—Marty Gallagher, of Washington, outpointed Battling Levinsky, Philadelphia, 12.

At Toronto—French Belanger, former N. B. A. flyweight champion, won decision over Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., 12.

At Richmond, Va.—George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro, kayoed Clem Johnson, negro heavyweight of New York, 3.

At Buffalo, N. Y.—Arturo Shieckx, Belgian boxer, outpointed Jack Money, negro middleweight of New York, 10.

At New York—Al Singer, New York featherweight, knocked out Pete Zivic, Pittsburgh, 5.

At New Haven, Conn. — Jackie Pilkington, New York, outpointed Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, 10.

When a man believes that he is the least bit unhappy, it always makes him more so.

EAGLES WILL PLAY COLLEGIANS TONIGHT IN STAR AUDITORIUM

Irish Meet Sacred Heart Friday; Central Schedule Alumni

ALTHOUGH there has been a scattering of games played by a few minor teams in the past weeks, the basketball season in Marion will get under way this week with three local teams swinging into action.

Next week seven more teams will start off the season while on the following week at least 18 teams of the Marion County Sunday School league will see action for the first time. Teams opening the season this week include the Marion Eagles, St. Mary's and Central Junior. The following week will see six teams of the Industrial loop playing their first games while the Harding varsity opens against Columbus West here.

The Eagles will be the first big team of Marion to make whoopee playing the Bliss Collegians of Columbus in Star auditorium tonight.

Watch Taylor

Much of the interest in the opening game is centered around the performance of Taylor at center for the locals. Being high point man of the Ohio conference and All Ohio center last year, Taylor was one of the outstanding court stars produced by Ohio colleges the past season. He will play a regular center berth with the Eagles throughout the season.

Friday night will see two teams playing. St. Mary's high has will appear in Star auditorium against Sacred Heart of Columbus in a game that is expected to be a real test for the strength of the local Irish. Friday's game will be the first time that a representative team of St. Mary's has played for two years and marks the opening of a new era of scholastic sports in the parochial school.

With a schedule calling for games every week, Central Junior cagers will hold their annual battle with the Alumni at the Y. M. C. A. gym at 7:15 o'clock Friday night.

Coach Cecil Gabler of the Centralites announced that two games have been scheduled with Galion and with the Marysville reserves. Plans are already being made for the annual three game series between Vernon and Central for the city junior championship.

The starting lineups for the Central-Alumni clash as announced by Coach Gabler follow:

| Central | Pos. | Alumni |
|---|---|---|
| Morgan | RF | Wright |
| Pickerel | LF | Richards |
| Clay | C | Ervitt |
| Eckenbarger | RG | Houseworth |
| Lindsey | LG | Barr |

THREE MATCH CONTESTS SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

Three match games are scheduled for the Recreational alleys here this week. Wednesday night a team from Tiffin will tangle with the Marion women. A team from Lima will bowl Thursday and on Saturday the Nash Motors of Ashland will tangle with the Chrispin Drugs.

IN LEAD

New York, Dec. 4—Nine o'clock this morning the thirty-sixth hour found Reggie McNamara and Klaas Van Nek leading the field at 620 miles in the six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. The popular pair were holding grimly onto a single lap advantage after a night of furious speeding that saw several changes in the position of the leaders.

Oil and Industrial Stocks Lead Sharp Rally at Opening

INCREASE IN LOANS NOTED LAST MONTH

Pools Force Advance in High-priced Specialties of 5 to 10 Points

MARKET SETTLED

Sales in First Half-Hour Period Shows Decline

BULLETIN

New York, Dec. 4—After reading the president's prosperity message the bulls in the stock market put their best foot forward today, marking up prices of their favorite stocks with the aid of powerful Wall Street and outside buying demand. The "blue chips" were not as plentiful as they were on Monday and scattered orders to buy a few thousand shares of Radio forced that stock up 21 points in a jiffy to 285, a few points short of its high record.

By W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Dec. 4—The oil stocks and the "blue chip" industrials led the whole market in a sharp rally at the beginning of trading today. Nobody worried over the $511,000,000 increase in brokers' loans in November as reported by the New York stock exchange after the close of yesterday's market, it was expected that the big November upswing in stocks would need lubrication in the form of more and more bank credit, and the showing of a $6,300,000,000 speculative "debt" took nobody's breath away.

Pools in the high-priced specialties had no difficulty in running up the prices of Radio, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, etc., five to 10 points. These stocks are under the most perfect control and in many cases their market moves are dictated by the pools and professionals. Radio climbed to 284½ and Chrysler Motor was in demand above 120, up four points.

The most colorful of all "prosperity bulletins" was looked for in Calvin Coolidge's annual address to congress, released during the day. Everything looked rosy to Wall Street from a business standpoint, and stock traders who threw their stocks on the market yesterday were buying them back today, in most cases at higher prices.

Strength without hilarity best describes the market in the first hour. Stock sales in the first 30 minutes were less than in yesterday's 4,181,000-share day, which appeared to show that Wall Street has for the time being gotten over its speculative spree, and was settling back to a sane basis once more.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

Chicago, Dec. 4—The local wheat market was rather dull yesterday. Bearish statistics prevented more than a slight response by foreign markets to Saturday's upturn, and though prices here were higher at times it was mainly due to the influence of a firm corn market. Bulges met with Northwest selling and reinstatement of short lines.

Corn was steady at the opening, but eased off on local selling. This was taken up by commission houses, however, and sellers were forced to bid the market up before the close. Best prices were last with the closing break in wheat and realizing.

December wheat was firmest, closing ¼c higher. The deferred deliveries were ¼@⅜c off. Corn finished ⅛@⅝c higher; oats ½@¾c up, and rye ⅛@⅝c lower. Winnipeg futures closed ⅛c lower to ⅜c higher.

Changes in the United States visible supply were as follows: Wheat, 2,108,000 bu. increase; corn, 1,391,000 bu. increase; oats, 1,108,000 bu. decrease; rye, 14,000 bu. increase; barley, 435,000 bu. increase.

With little response from foreign markets, the local wheat trade cooled and local selling appeared in place of the short covering Saturday. Liverpool was only ⅛@¾d higher at the close, although this was cited by cables as strong considering the bearishness of weekly statistics.

There was further buying of the December with selling of the deferred deliveries, and it was the latter that met with Northwest selling on the upturns. Following the bulge with corn, wheat turned weak and prices for all but the December slid off below the previous close. This closed the spread between the December and May half a cent.

Canadian Acreage Down

The acreage sown to winter wheat in Canada this fall is placed by the dominion bureau of statistics at 951,000 acres, compared with 1,033,000 acres a year ago.

Early in the session corn trading was confined mainly to further changing between the December and the May at 5⅞@⅞c difference. Locals outsold, however, and short covering sent prices up into the cost of the "offers." Realizing sales and selling against the privileges checked the advance.

A report by the department of agriculture pointed out that the potential demand for corn is about the same as a year ago, while the longer feeding period out of this crop and the short stocks at the beginning of the season have about disposed of the 120,000,000 bu more in this crop, making present supply about the same as a year ago. Prices at that time were more than 5 cents a bu higher.

There were two other bullish news items relating to corn. One was a letter from a local firm's Liverpool house placing the requirements of Europe at 170,000,000 bu, of which 130,000,000 will have to come from the United States. The other was the comparatively small increase in visible stocks during the past week when the movement increased.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

"Marion can't object to its meat prices. This city has, as a whole, the lowest meat prices coming to my attention," a local retail dealer stated this morning. Keen competition between the retail meat markets of the city is undoubtedly the reason for the low prices, he said.

Three changes in the retail prices of meats were reported here this morning. All of the variations in the quotations were increases.

Smoked hams went up from 22 and 25 cents a pound to 25 and 28 cents. Sausage increased from 17 1-2 cents a pound to 20 cents. Hamburg rose from 20 cents a pound to 22 cents.

One other variation in prices was reported here this morning. It was on fruits.

Prunes, formerly selling only at 10 cents a pound, may now be purchased at varying prices. The range is 10, 15 and 18 cents a pound.

COMPLICATION OF AILMENTS YIELD TO NEW KONJOLA

Years of Agonizing Pain and Nervousness Find First and Only Conquerer in Master Medicine.

MRS. LIDA HUBER

"I am lost in wonderment at what this splendid Konjola did for my stomach and kidney troubles and nervousness and did I not have the actual experience myself I would have doubted that one single medicine could bring such results," said Mrs. Lida Huber, 13 Ridgeway Avenue, Dayton, Ohio.

"For many years I had stomach and kidney disorders that dragged my health down to such a level that I was well nigh a nervous wreck. I had to get up many times at night, pain pierced my back and I had dizzy spells. My food did not digest and gas pains were almost too much to

Orange Sports, Gray Sedans and Baby Blue Roadsters Show Features

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Seventeen different makes of motor cars and everything that pertains to them—that is, everything but an open roadway—are to be seen today at the Hotel Commodore. The occasion is the twenty-fourth annual "society" automobile salon of the New York Automobile club.

The show, which will continue throughout the week, is an informal affair and there is no admission fee. You merely walk into the hotel, carefully scrutinize the various models and if you do not walk out with a car in your handbag or pocket rest assured it is not the fault of the score or more salesmen who are on duty throughout the day and night.

Unlike other shows, color seems to be the thing at this year's salon. The manufacturers have exhausted the spectrum in their effort to beautify their products. Orange sport models, slate gray sedans and baby blue roadsters are to be seen on all sides.

Two models draw more than a little share of the visitors' attention. These are sport cars in which the influence of the airplane is to be seen to a marked degree. One of them is a Lincoln phaeton of highly polished aluminum with the front fenders designed to represent the cross section of a plane's wings, the front and rear seats resembling cockpits and a rudder and elevator attachment on the rear.

U. S. WILL COLLECT 2 BILLION TAXES

Comes from Income and Corporation Assessments; Less Than Last Year

Washington, Dec. 4—Uncle Sam will collect about $2,171,000,000 income and corporation taxes in 1928, according to estimates prepared at the treasury department today.

The income from this source from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1 was $1,731,000 and approximately $400,000,000 will be collected Dec. 15 at the fourth quarterly tax payment period. The receipts will be slightly less than for the fiscal year ending last June.

After exact figures on the December collection are available Secretary Mellon and Budget Director H. M. Lord, will be able to make an accurate estimate of the surplus for June 30. While a small surplus is anticipated the spread between receipts and expenditures will be the smallest since the war.

The returns to be filed at the succeeding tax payment period, March 15, will give the first accurate check on the results of the revenue act. Some of the reductions provided in that law, including the corporation tax cut, are effective on incomes earned in 1928 and therefore will not be reflected in returns until March 15. A considerably greater productivity of business in 1928 will have the effect of partially offsetting the reduction of rates.

The next nine months will be marked by tremendous debt refunding operations, during that period bonds or certificates amounting to $2,091,000,000 falling due.

46 SHOOTINGS

Figures Are Compiled by Chicago Crime Commission

Chicago, Dec. 4—The total gang shootings in Cook county from Jan. 1, 1928, to Sept. 15, 1928, is 46, according to figures compiled for International News Service by the Chicago crime commission.

Officials of the commission explained it was impossible to classify all shootings as approximately three-fourths of the murderers have not been arrested and the motives for various slayings are not known. Many of the shootings, while having the aspects of a gang slaying, cannot positively be laid to a result of gang warfare.

Compiled on a similar basis, the number of gang killings in Cook county for the entire year 1927 was 49.

CITIES RAZED BY CHILEAN EARTHQUAKE

Heavy loss of life and property is reported in interior of Chile following disastrous earthquake. The photo above shows view of main thoroughfare in town of Copiapo after the temblor of 1922; below, ruins of Chanaral after the same disturbance. Both cities are in zone of the present earthquake. The map shows route of President-elect Hoover's good will trip.

RATIONALIZATION OF OIL INDUSTRY URGED

American Petroleum Official Says Overproduction Will Weaken Prices

Chicago, Dec. 4—Stressing in an address that overproduction of fuel oil in this country will weaken the price structure of this product, Axtell J. Byles, vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, opened the annual meeting of the institute here today with a plea for rationalization of the production.

Byles cited statistics in the years 1926 and 1927 which, he said, indicated there was considerable overproduction, this resulted in drastic price cuts in those years and gave rise to a prolonged depression from which the industry is now attempting to emerge.

Byles stated he believed the solution of the problem lay in keeping fuel oil in the ground, and not in storage, where it could be obtained whenever needed by current demand. This would insure stabilization of the price.

While he did not directly refer to the recent coal conference at Pittsburgh relative to making fuel oils from coal as a relief to the coal industry should such emergency arise, Byles in his address pointed out that the oil industry was facing an era of overproduction unless careful steps be taken, and that any such steps as mentioned at the coal conference would more seriously impair the present oil situation.

$5.11 PER CAPITA ON AIR MAIL SPENT

Postmaster General New Makes Annual Report to President Coolidge

Washington, Dec. 4—That the people of the United States make great use of Uncle Sam's mail service is indicated by the fact that during the last fiscal year the average per capita expenditure for postage was $5.11.

This fact was brought out today by Postmaster General Harry S. New in his annual report to the president. The revenues of the postal service for the year, he said, were $903,633,021, an increase over the preceding year of 1.54 per cent of which $610,611,458 or $9.33 per cent, was obtained from postage paid on mail.

The audited expenditures were $725,009,705, and the cash deficit was $82,121,005, including losses by fire, burglary, etc., amounting to $55,251. New said that when necessary adjustments are made for obligations carried over from prior years and for obligations outstanding the operation deficit amounts to $33,303,148.

Important Factor

Referring to the air mail service, New said it was an important factor in the business needs of the nation. The growing interest is indicated by the increasing number of applications from cities for new routes, the commendable interest of so many municipalities in facilities for air mail fields, and the desire of post offices for extension of service for supply on existing routes.

"While this interest is gratifying to the Department," said the report, "it must be conceded that so far as the wish to advance commercial aviation is concerned, it must yield to the necessity for considering the establishment of routes from a postal business standpoint. This is necessary to insure the continuance of operation by the contractors who must make considerable outlay of funds for the purchase of the necessary ground and flying equipment."

New said that the policy of encouraging aviation and providing for its constructive and sound development will continue to be his aim.

During the year 5,900,948 miles of air mail service were scheduled and 5,585,220 miles were actually flown.

Asks Legislation

The report made numerous recommendations for legislation among the more important being:

To enable postmasters to designate one or more employes to perform duties for them during their absence, including the signing of checks.

To enable the Postmaster General, in his discretion, to purchase supplies and contract for services for the Post Office Department in open market.

To enable the Postmaster General to make contracts for the transportation of mails by air from island possessions of the United States to foreign countries and to the United States, and contracts with private individuals and corporations for the conveyance of mail by air in foreign countries.

To extend the free mail privilege to correspondence of members of the Diplomatic Corps and consuls of Pan American countries.

To provide more drastic punishment for mail robbers.

PACKARD

The Safest Place to Buy a Used Car

THE Packard policy does not permit frequent and radical changes in design to depreciate cars in the hands of owners. This makes a slightly used Packard a most satisfactory car to buy. While the average Packard owner expects to keep his car at least four years, we have Packard cars that have been used but a year or two, with most of their mileage life available at a great reduction from the price the new car purchaser gladly pays.

Examples of Our Used Car Offerings
